

Cathie Foley grew up in Michigan and graduated from Central Michigan University with a Bachelor of Science in Child Development and Psychology in 1991. She moved to Truckee, California in October 1991 to help manage the Children's Ski School at Boreal. She has worked in many roles over the years, from hospitality to the corporate environment as a loan consultant and manager. She traded the corporate environment for non-profit work that has allowed her to make a difference in the community she loves, while focused on her first job which was to be a mom to her 3 children. She has been privileged with family and friends in her life to support when challenging times have come and gone. She deeply believes that the world is a better place when all humans receive access to human necessities, including love and support. In 2015, when a grass roots effort began to create an Emergency Warming Center to support our neighbors living outside in the winter, she took the role of Program Coordinator. Since that time, she has grown with the mission and programs and is thankful to have a team of amazing humans working together to support our most vulnerable neighbors. When not working, she treasures her time with her adult children, her dog, hiking, exploring nature and new places, and time with friends and family.
